'NO NEW TAXES' MOVE GROWING

Marion County Group Ready To Join in Statewide Mass Meeting

TO BE CALLED IF NEEDED

Citizens' Organization Presents New Facts Showing Present Revenue Adequate

Fred E Guthery, chairman of the Marion county committee of the Inter Organization conference is making preparations for Marion members to cooperate in the newest plans of the statewide organization to carry out its No New Taxes program

Acting on a request received from George H Charls of Cleveland chairman of the organization Mr Guthery is making preparations to rush a committee to Columbus if summoned to join others from all over the state in a personal mass demonstration and protest against any new taxes

The committees will not be called to Columbus unless it is necessary Mr Charls said but it has been indicated the hardest fight of the conference to give effect to its program may be near at hand

Movement Growing

Meanwhile Mr Charls reported sentiment in favor of the No New Taxes program is increasing rapidly throughout the state

In all of this hullabaloo for further raids on the pocketbooks of the men and women of Ohio for more tax revenues Mr Charls told the group sight must not be lost of these facts

First reports make it unquestionably certain that revenues from present taxation are mounting startlingly higher than had been anticipated a few months ago

Second the great mass of ordinary everyday taxpayers rapidly awakening to the enormous tax burden which they are now carrying are opposed to any unwarranted additional taxation They are demanding reduction

Third need for new taxes has not been demonstrated by sound clear cut figures and facts The eternal cry for more of the people's money surely is not sufficient proof in itself of downright need

Revenue Declared Ample

Perorating the declaration of the Inter Organization conference that ample taxation revenues are available to meet fully the actual needs of government including relief without again soaking the tax payers with increased taxes Chairman Charls said

A very amazing thing is that recent weekly sales tax revenue reports show that the income from the sales tax is running appreciably higher than in 1936 despite the fact that the tax has no applied to food this year

Chairman Charls also said that collection of the intangible tax are bringing in greatly increased revenue—the increase amounting to from 35 to 50 per cent more than last year and that most of the increase in this tax revenue is accruing to the subdivisions much of which may be made available for poor relief purposes

He stressed the fact that where the collection of local taxes is being pursued earnestly larger funds will be at the disposal of the communities

The increased revenues from

By The Associated Press

STOCKTON Calif April 24—The bloody Stockton cannery strike moved today from a field of rioting where 50 persons were shot clubbed and gassed to peace meetings at Sacramento

There a conference of canners and labor representatives with Gov Frank F Merriam broke up this morning amid indications of a tentative agreement between factions over demands for wage increases and union recognition

A joint statement said canners and workers believed they were not far from a satisfactory solution

The heaviest casualties appeared among the pickets who attempted to halt the truck

Sheriff's deputies and state officers bombarded the pickets with tear gas and shotgun fire The strikers replied with swinging clubs and flying rocks Finally J C Fitzgerald labor council member mounted a loud speaker truck and appealed to the strikers to disperse

Decide to Confer

Quickly a truce was arranged Gov Merriam obtained renewal in Sacramento 30 miles away of peace conferences which collapsed last Wednesday

MORROW COUNTY MURDER PROBE NOW IN FIFTH DAY

Officials Still Pushing Investigation of Slaying of Aged Widow To Make Tests of Guns

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD O April 24—Five days of intensive questioning of relatives of Mrs Catherine Hack 6-year-old widow who was slain at her farm home three and one half miles southwest of Cardington last Sunday night or Monday morning ended last night Authorities however were still busy today continuing their investigation

Howard G Robinson superintendent of the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation his assistant Fred Dengler and a stenographer who has taken shorthand notes on the statements of persons quizzed left Mt Gilead this morning Prosecuting Attorney Nelson Campbell said Robinson and Dengler planned to take three rifles and three revolvers with them to the London prison farm for test shots and a comparison of the bullets with two recovered from the head of Mrs Hack Also the shorthand notes were to be transcribed and the statements of the relatives studied

Sheriff Oscar George and Prosecutor Campbell today continued to check leads brought out in the questioning of members of the family but said there had been no developments of importance early this afternoon

It is expected the state investigators will return and resume work here after completing the ballistics tests which may require several days

The five-day period of questioning was completed last night when the state investigators and county authorities quizzed Woodrow Shaw 26 and Charles Shaw 16 grandsons of the slain woman Earlier in the day they had talked to Mrs Carrie Pelle Shaw eldest daughter of the murder victim and the one who found her in bed shortly before noon Monday Mrs Kate Hack a sister of the slain woman and L J Smith a son in law of the victim

Meanwhile the Hack farm home remains under the padlock of Dr Todd Caris Morrow county coroner and in the care of Constable Lloyd Faust assigned by the sheriff to see the place is not disturbed Faust spends considerable time there and relatives are looking after the livestock

Two dogs one of them Pug a fox terrier owned by the slain woman and the other a hound owned by her son Walter are chained at the rear of the house The barking of Pug heard at 10 p m Sunday by Mrs Kate Hack who lives in the house nearest her late sister's home furnished authorities their only clue as to what time the murder occurred

*The possibility that private in*vestigators may be called in to help authorities was believed under consideration today after Prosecutor Campbell had suggested that relatives of Mrs Hack form an investigation fund by contributions Several of the relatives have indicated they will help bear the cost of the investigation authorities said

School District Changes Seen Unlikely in County

No Proposals Offered at Meeting Held in Accordance With State Foundation Law

Possibility that shifting of Marion county school districts in accordance with the state school foundation law may never take place was seen last night as the county board of education conducted a hearing at Harding High school on the controversial matter No new redistricting proposals were offered Virtually all the 25 school officials and interested residents who attended expressed opposition to the state's plan

The hearing was required under the state school foundation law and was intended to give district school boards and interested citizens an opportunity to present plans or express opinions The county board offered last year a proposal which was partially defeated

A [illegible] record of the proceedings was taken and will be forwarded to the state department of education [illegible] Stanley [illegible] superintendent of the county board who was in charge of the hearing

Following the meeting Mr Almendinger said redistricting must be effected by July 1 1938 and if it is not then the statute of limitations intervenes and automatically closes the question leaving the county as it is at present

State's Course Uncertain

What steps might be taken by the state after July 1 1938 to establish redistricting are a matter for conjecture Mr Almendinger said

Carrying out provisions of the foundation law the county board last year made seven separate proposals which would have transferred virtually all Marion township school district and a large part of Grand Prairie school district to adjoining school districts Six one-room schools in Marion township would have been abandoned

Three of the proposals were defeated through remonstrances of residents of the affected districts while the four remaining were approved Later the county board and the state were forbidden to carry out redistricting in the four approved areas by a common pleas court injunction still in effect granted the Marion township school board

Supt D J Mills said he believes the law permits the county board to act on petitions of groups within Marion township to be transferred to Marion city Wholesale shifting of districts is blocked at present he said

Probable Final Decision

From court decisions in other Ohio counties on the same questions county board members feel a final decision here would be against the redistricting

Redistricting is desired by the state as a measure of economy increasing the number of pupils per teacher reducing upkeep costs of buildings and general centralization of management

Recently the county board declared a hands off policy and advertised for last night's meeting at which proposals would be invited concerning redistricting The board presented no new plan

In opening the meeting which lasted approximately an hour Mr

ECONOMY DRIVE GAINS BACKERS

10 Per Cent Slash in All Outlays and Half Billion Cut in Relief Demanded

WANT BALANCED BUDGET

Blanket Cuts Held Bad But Probably Only Means of Making Ends Meet.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 24 — Proposals to slash all federal appropriations by 10 per cent and to slice $500 000 000 from President Roosevelt's relief estimates gained fresh support today in the senate appropriations committee

Although some committee members described a fixed horizontal cut as unscientific a majority said they would accept it if it proved the only means of balancing the budget by July 1938

Backers of agriculture legislation served notice however they would not abandon pending bills without a struggle Sen Bankhead Democrat of Alabama expressed the opinion that President Roosevelt in urging economy did not intend to withdraw his support from the Bankhead Jones farm tenancy bill

I have had sufficient conferences with the President in the last two years on the proposed farm tenancy legislation Bankhead said so that I am firmly of the opinion he will not abandon it

Secretary Wallace recently called tenancy aid the one part of the farm program which might be postponed to save money The Bankhead Jones bill would require $50 000 000 a year

A $[illegible] appropriation to run the agriculture department in the next fiscal year was approved late yesterday by the house which held close to the President's budget estimates

The members accepted a proposal by Rep Smith Democrat of Texas to add $[illegible]348 for wool marketing studies but defeated one by Rep Taber Republican of New York for a 10 per cent cut in the department's funds

The idea of a horizontal reduction in all government appropriations appeared to be winning more backers in the senate than in the house

Sen McKellar Democrat of Tennessee of the appropriations committee said he had prepared legislation to carry out that proposal

Sen Byrnes Democrat of South Carolina previously had announced he would press for such action as well as a $1 000 000 000 limit to relief expenditures two-thirds of the amount asked by President Roosevelt for 1937 38

COURT COMPROMISE NECESSARY TO WIN

Nine in Committee of 18 Now Opposed to Measure as It Stands.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 24 — A new survey of the closely divided senate judiciary committee disclosed today that administration supporters must compromise in order to win preliminary approval of the court reorganization bill unless some members change their minds

Nine senators or half the committee membership said they would vote against the measure as it stands although not all would be quoted by name Another was non-committal

Even if the administration should win the non-committal vote it could muster only a tie Ten votes would be required in the committee of 18 to recommend passage of the bill

If the non-committal senator should decide to vote against the bill it could get to the senate only with an unfavorable report. A tie would send it to the floor without recommendation

Unless President Roosevelt agrees to modification the count showed there was little likelihood a compromise would receive a majority vote in the committee.

Akron Judge Denounces 'Trials in Newspapers Instead of in Courts'

By The Associated Press

AKRON O April 24—In an eight page opinion Common Pleas Judge Walter P Wanamaker today found Walter Morrow editor of the Akron Times-Press guilty of contempt of court on three counts in the grand jury secrecy case which ended yesterday and fined him a total of $50

The court divided up the fines by assessing Morrow $10 for publishing in his newspaper the names of the grand jurors $15 for revealing the names of witnesses and $25 for making known the titles of grand jury cases

Judge Wanamaker contended there has been too much trying of lawsuits in newspapers instead of in courts particularly those of criminal cases where the rights of society and the individual should be established by the orderly procedure of justice

Attorney Robert Guinther Morrow's counsel announced the case would be carried immediately to the court of appeals The editor furnished bond of $100 pending appeal regret at the possibility of her being separated from her child

Mrs Norton wrote letters to Gable to actress Mae West and many other Hollywood film folk telling her story and demanding that Gable be made to support her 11 year old Gwendoline

A jury of middle aged business men required only one hour and 55 minutes to find her guilty of mail fraud

Lavine said he would petition for probation so that she can leave the country If refused he said he would appeal

She's a martyr to her belief he asserted

She should have changed her story after seeing Gable in court yesterday She should have said she was mistaken in thinking he was the Frank Billings she knew Then she would have gone free

Lavine's defense was that Mrs Norton had made an honest mistake in identity

But she wouldn't do that the attorney continued The jury almost had to return a verdict of guilty to clear Gable's name as rightly it should be cleared

She sat still for a moment after the court clerk read the verdict Her attorney patted her arm but she seemed not to notice him Then she collapsed and began to sob uncontrollably

Returned to jail Mrs Norton again demanded that the actor submit to a blood test for comparison with her own

That will prove my innocence she cried They've got to do that

CHANGES IN SCHOOLS SEEN UNLIKELY HERE

Almendinger invited opinions on the proposed shifting

First to speak was A M Owings of Marion township who said he is in favor of Marion township remaining as it is He said his children have received a satisfactory education taxes are reasonable and that he can see no possible benefit for a dissolution of the present district

William Risch of Marion township said the majority of the people do not want to change and his statements were reiterated by Frank Hinamon also of Marion township

Elmer A Williams of Grand Prairie township said I am satisfied that the vast majority prefer to maintain the same type of school we now maintain There are two or three families that would like to have a change He moved to table the redistricting program but the motion was found out of order by Mr Almendinger

J B Kalb of Agosta district said 90 per cent of the residents there want to be left alone We are clear out of debt while other districts are head over heels in debt he said We would have to help them get out of it

Sees Revenue Increase

Questioned by one of the audience on the present debt of the school foundation in the state Mr Almendinger said about $5 000 000 but that sales tax receipts have increased due to business improvement and are expected to surpass last year's despite the loss of the food tax The sales tax supplies a large part of the school foundation's revenue

Earl Speece of Scott township declared there is nothing to prevent the state from ordering as few as one or two schools in the county and that he is opposed to change

Mrs A D Kaufman of Marion township the lone speaker for the redistricting plan said she favors centralization for the sake of her children and does not want them to attend one room schools

Mr Hinamon again arose and said he is satisfied to have his children educated in all eight grades in the same room He pointed out that transportation for high school tuition is reasonable

Mr Williams then sought to move that the districts be left as they are but again was found out of order He then moved for a vote to see how those attending stood but was told the hearing was intended to obtain individual opinions or formal actions of boards of education in the county

Speaks for Green Camp

John Ruth president of the Green Camp board recalled a similar proposal made by the state several years ago regarding Green Camp high school and said it had been rejected because the high school is used as a community center He declared most of the residents are still opposed to change

In answer to questions by Mr Speece D T Mills county school superintendent said no high schools in the county have the full 150 pupils in the upper four grades as required by the state foundation and that only Caledonia LaRue Pleasant and Prospect have 150 in the lower grades

LaRue is the only school Mr Mills said known to have sufficient room to accommodate the required number of pupils Prospect and perhaps Pleasant schools might qualify he said

Mr Speece then pointed out it might be necessary to build large schools if redistricting were ordered in the county in order to accommodate the increased pupil population

Other members of the county board present were Mr Almendinger C N Kiler and J F Mounts Other school officials present were [illegible] of Kirkpatrick school [illegible] of Waldo school [illegible] of Pleasant school [illegible] of Caledonia school and LeMoyne Greene of Grand Prairie school [illegible] Wilhelm [illegible] for the county board and H J Doyle [illegible] for the Marion [illegible] board were also present but made no statements

NEW TRIALS SOUGHT IN PAY SUITS HERE

Motions Filed in Common Pleas Court in Effort To Claim Fund

Motions for new trials were filed in common pleas court today by five former Harding High school vocational students in their suits against the Osgood Co for approximately $1 600 which they allege is due them for work as student workers several years ago Judge A V Baumann of Fremont assigned here last week awarded the money which had been held in trust deposits in Marion banks by the company to the Marion city school board for use in the high school vocational department

The plaintiffs all represented by W Dexter Hazen are Timothy Caldwell Charles G Drippe Arnold Finural Harry Wick and Malcolm Severns Mr Hazen said he has been instructed to carry the suits to the court of appeals if the motions are overruled

Grounds for the motions are that there is no evidence to support the claim of the school board to the money namely that the board spent time and money in educating the plaintiffs that the money was earned by the plaintiffs under an employment contract which had been fulfilled by them

Judge Baumann ruled the Osgood Co had fully complied with all obligations of the contract which were that the plaintiffs were to be paid 20 cents an hour and that on graduation from high school an additional 10 cents an hour bonus would be paid The additional 10 cents was placed in trust but the plaintiffs never graduated The company had asked the court to distribute the money stating it had no way of knowing if the plaintiffs might return to school to graduate

Ben T Wyant represented the company and City solicitor Ralph E Carhart the school board

LABOR UNION MEETING HELD

[illegible] Representatives Move To Organize [illegible]kers Here

[illegible] and president of [illegible] was in charge [illegible] secretary of the [illegible] the [illegible] end [illegible] of Cleveland [illegible]

American Federation of Labor and Eric Peterson of Cleveland national representative of the International Association of Machinists spoke at the meeting. Both spoke on the benefits of organization and referred to the Wagner labor act and the recent decisions of the supreme court upholding the right of employes to bargain collectively with their employers.

After telling something of the recent work in other Ohio cities in behalf of the labor movement Mr Claherty launched into a discussion of labor movements of other years such as the I W W, the O B U (One Big Union) the Socialist Labor party and others.

It took 25 years he said for labor to recover from the devastation caused by these movements.

Then launching into a discussion of the present CIO movement Mr Claherty said the A F of L did not want trouble in labor ranks but that the Lewis faction refuses to sit down around a conference table and iron out the difference.

Not long ago a delegation of 12 representing 900 workers affiliated with the CIO in an Ohio factory came to me and asked for a charter in the American Federation of Labor. They told me they were assessed without their consent and had no voice in operation of their organization. Every day he said delegations of CIO workers are going to Washington to ask for A F of L charters.

The CIO is a child of fascism and communism and was in America [illegible] he declared. We are going to preserve the right of the [illegible] and [illegible] to have the [illegible] the affairs of our [illegible]

"The [illegible] is [illegible]" he said.

Closing his remarks with a [illegible] he said that now is the time for workers to organize. Claherty said "There never was a time when the government was standing back of the worker as it is today."

A number of Marion men belonging to various labor organizations were called on for brief remarks by Chairman Swe[illegible]

At the close of the meeting an opportunity was given the audience to sign applications for A F of L membership.

Birthstones

DO birthstones change with the times? we were asked recently. We didn't know but thought [illegible] if we were to set out to purchase [illegible] our birthstone we would ask to see a good old unique [illegible]. Imagine our surprise and astonishment when a jewelry store brought the information that the turquoise as far as a birthstone goes is out. In fact it's very much passe. Times change. We read the [illegible] and find out. Why a birthstone anyhow? Well, according to an old Polish superstition each month has a special jewel or stone which if worn will prove a lucky talisman. Here are the newer stones up to date: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, aquamarine; April, white sapphire; May, emerald; June, [illegible]; July, ruby; August, [illegible]; September, [illegible]; October, tourmaline; November, topaz; December, zircon.

AND as long as it's spring and we're on a birthday topic, why not some couplets for the month in which you were born:

January
Gabriel as thy [illegible]

February
Barchiel guards thy early youthful days
And [illegible] will which passion sways.
March

But knows thy courage in a dangerous hour.
April
Though oft repentant thou art innocent,
Ashmodiel knoweth of thy good intent.
May
In love successful Amriel doth declare
That Hope will give of blessing thy full share.
June
In bonds of love great Muriel decrees
For thee long life of luxury and ease.
July
Verchiel invests thy speech with eloquence
And from disloyal friends is thy defense.
August
Console thyself Hamaliel shall be
True guardian of thy heart's felicity.
September
May Zuriel preserve thy life from care
And give of happiness a well earned share.
October
Injustice and misfortune may distress
But Barbiel will give thee happiness.
November
Adnachiel sends friends both wise and true,
Guard well the favors that they bring to you.
December
With forethought wise Hamiel brings success
That crowns thy life with highest happiness.

Surest cash crop.. MILK
America's most important crop is milk—a most and largest source of farm cash. The markets for milk and cream, though often full to overflowing, never fail to bring cash income to the producer.
Everyone in the dairy business depends on the development of more outlets for milk and milk products. This takes constant telling and retelling of the story of quality—of cleanliness on farms and in factories. Continuous research and aggressive salesmanship must convince the world that milk is the most important food.
Borden research, invention and selling effort have contributed for 80 years to the world wide appreciation of milk and milk products.

A Truth To Be Faced

President Roosevelt has made an official statement about the federal government's finances. It is one of his duties to make recommendations to congress on financial policy—one of his most important duties because finance is the foundation of government.

Various departments must have the funds they require to operate efficiently. The public in general must have assurance the government's financial affairs are in good order to maintain confidence. Equitable taxes must be levied in sufficient amount to insure solvency. These are complex matters.

They have been more than usually hard to deal with during the last six years while income was falling off and expenses were being stepped up progressively by the new deal's spending program. Actions have been taken which were contrary to precedent. The country's resources and imagination have been drawn on freely to support the government's fiscal policies.

This is the background for Mr. Roosevelt's second term in the presidency. Entirely apart from his general program, his management of governmental finance still is open to question. He has yet to prove that he can steer around the rocks of a loose fiscal policy, which means in his case balancing the budget and liquidating at least some of the national debt from the proceeds of the inflationary movement which he claims the new deal has caused.

In view of this very grave responsibility it is deeply significant that so much of the comment following his latest message on government has been skeptical not only of the figures which Mr. Roosevelt used but of the general pattern of his thinking.

It is to be hoped that this prevailing undertone of doubt will reach the President, that it will be analyzed by his subordinates for what it is worth and that the restlessness of congressmen who are in closer touch with the public than most administrative officials have a chance to be will be evaluated honestly as a sign that the continued drift into ever greater indebtedness finally has begun to strain public confidence in new deal fiscal policy.

Sitdowns in Ohio

Reversal of its previous stand against sitdown strikers in Ohio's "little Wagner act" does not put the house of representatives on record in favor of this controversial method. It is unfortunate that any opportunity for misunderstanding was presented.

The broadest interpretation which reasonably can be placed on the action of the house is that it refused to deal openly with an issue which even so popular a politician as President Roosevelt has been sidestepping. The assemblymen took their cue from Washington.

It should be noticed they subsequently compromised by agreeing to proposals to bar employes who engage in sitdown strikes from filing complaints with the state labor board and to prohibit employes from engaging in unlawful activities.

Sitdowns in Ohio, as elsewhere, have reached a point where those who order them and participate in them must consider the probability that public tolerance will not be forthcoming. That means, in other words, that popular opinion, the source of public policy as expressed in law, rapidly is developing to a point where legislators will be able to determine what they are expected to do.

For the present it may be said that Ohio's representatives have gone a step ahead of the national administration in dealing realistically with the sitdown problem.

One Bridge at a Time

The country has been impressed deeply of late with the possibilities of another too-booming boom which would be the forerunner of another period of depression. It has been listening seriously to everybody with anything to say on the subject.

A good many ears therefore will catch the words of Col. Leonard P. Ayres and will note an important difference in tone. For Col. Ayres, with a distinguished record of business analysis to back him up, isn't worrying about a boom at all.

That is a bridge to be crossed when it is reached, he thinks. The country isn't even on the road leading to it yet. "We have not as yet definitely emerged from the depression. The far more important fact is that the production of goods is now subnormal."

Col. Ayres sees many things to do before it is time to start worrying about too much prosperity. His viewpoint suggests two things about conditions at present, though he does not speak of them.

First, that rising prices go with a business boom, but a business boom does not always go with rising prices. Second, that there may be persons in high places who wouldn't mind having the country think about a money-spent boom instead of about recovery from the still-existent depression.

Penology

There are infinite possibilities of improving penological methods in the United States, but punishing unruly prisoners by making them wear Mother Hubbard dresses probably isn't one of them.

This is the scheme being given a trial in the state reformatory at Granite, Okla. The idea is that the dresses make the bad boys look funny, the other prisoners laugh, and that is more humiliating than confinement in a dungeon on a bread and water diet.

If there were any merit in this kind of involuntary female impersonation as a [illegible] the Granite prison keepers could find something funnier than a Mother Hubbard dress. With apologies in advance to the designers of the new hats for women, a few models come to mind which would make rough cut-ups wish they [illegible] shame if they had to wear them—and the same goes for the [illegible] who don't have to wear them but do for fashion's sake.

Debts And Deficits Important

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright 1937 by The Marion Star)

WASHINGTON, Apr. 24.—[illegible] message [illegible] direct [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible]

[illegible] ago—March 10 [illegible] President Roosevelt [illegible] the [illegible] recurring [illegible] spending administration [illegible]

For three [illegible] federal [illegible] toward bankruptcy.

[illegible] I point out to the [illegible] effect of this fact [illegible] our national [illegible]

I have [illegible] the recent collapse of our banking [illegible]

[illegible] stagnation of the [illegible] of our people.

[illegible] all [illegible] to the ranks of the unemployed. Our government's house is not [illegible] for many reasons no effective action has been taken to restore it to order.

[illegible] have elapsed since Mr. Roosevelt made that address to congress. In those four years a deficit has been piled up aggregating more than twice as much in amount as [illegible] was a staggering [illegible] was [illegible] on the road to bankruptcy.

Table of Deficits

[illegible] treasury department's own figures, which attribute to the Hoover administration a total deficit of $[illegible] up to and including March 3, 1933, the Roosevelt deficit has added an extra $14,[illegible] The official figures of the [illegible] as follows:

From March 4, 1933, to June 30, 1933—$[illegible]

Full fiscal year ending June 30, 1934—$[illegible]

Full fiscal year ending June 30, 1935—$[illegible]

Full fiscal year ending June 30, 1936—$4,[illegible]

Full fiscal year ending June 30, 1937—$[illegible]

Full fiscal year ending June 30, 1938—$[illegible]

Total—$[illegible]

The last [illegible] fiscal year of course are [illegible] the present year which ends [illegible] and a half months away [illegible] the [illegible] estimated deficit depends on how accurate the treasury is in [illegible] taxes to be collected. [illegible] estimates were proved wrong this year [illegible] too high.

All the foregoing figures are exclusive of debt retirement.

The cumulative deficit that is the $3,4[illegible] of the Hoover administration and the $11,8[illegible] of the four Roosevelt years makes a total of $15,351,[illegible] for the red ink of the federal government in seven years.

It is being asked, of course, how it happens that when the Hoover deficits were plunging America on the road to bankruptcy, with less than $4,000,000,000, an extra $11,000,000,000 is considered less dangerous.

The truth is the President has been hoping each year to bring the deficits down materially, but he has not yet succeeded in having a single year in which the deficit is less than the worst of the years during which President Hoover was in office.

Back in 1933 the President outlined to congress the essentials of the debt problem and their relation to the economic welfare of the country. He said:

"Upon the unimpaired credit of the United States government rests the safety of deposits, the security of insurance policies, the activity of industrial enterprises, the value of agricultural products and the availability of employment.

"The credit of the United States government definitely affects these fundamental human values. It therefore becomes our first concern to make secure the foundation. National recovery depends on it."

Huge Debt Forgiven

Now, however, recovery is supposed to have been achieved during the first four Roosevelt years, or at least to have been so substantially assured that the American people last autumn presumably forgave the large expenditures and reelected the administration which had promised them a balanced budget. The curve of expenses is going up notwithstanding recovery. The number of unemployed is still very large, but by no means as large as four years ago. On the other hand, the administration is afraid to count them for fear the actual number getting relief will be revealed as a greater expense than is warranted now that recovery in large measure is supposed to have been attained.

If the credit of the United States government remains good, it will be because the people become convinced that ultimately their wishes will be followed by congress and the President and that expenses will be materially reduced. When differences of opinion arise as to whether this task will be fulfilled, the prices of government bonds fluctuate. Just now governmental policies as to future expenses and future tax receipts is somewhat indecisive and indeterminate. Hence the risks pointed out by the President in March, 1933, again become pertinent for consideration.

A Congressman

By SIGRID ARNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Here's the average congressman.

He's 51, weighs 160 and is 5-foot-7 tall.

He went to college, became a lawyer, married and had two children.

He knows quite a bit of American history, really likes the country and would like to do something about it if he only knew the best way to proceed.

He gets 400 letters a day. He hires a $1,500-a-year stenographer to answer letters and a $1,[illegible]00-a-year secretary to listen to world savers and job hunters.

C. JASPER BELL
Typical Representative

Good-looking, 51-year-old C. Jasper Bell of Missouri is typical. He's serving his second term in the house. He has part of Kansas City in his district, but he also has [illegible]0,000 farmers, hundreds of war veterans, widows who want pensions, pacifists, militarists, isolationists.

He has to know about the 10,000 bills that are introduced at each session of congress. He has to attend meetings of the four committees on which he serves, make speeches in the house when his committees have a bill up and then return to his office to advise Mrs. Grab Stake, who wants her daughter introduced at the Court of St. James's, and Mandy Jones, whose husband has left her again.

He didn't plan to come to congress although five members of his family have been here in the last hundred years. He had to work for his schooling because his father and mother died before he went to college. But he had an uncle who was a lawyer.

"Look here, why go to school any more?" said the uncle one day. "Found a typewriter in my office and I'll teach you law." The youngster snatched the chance.

He stuck close to business for years because there was a pretty nurse in Nebraska who became Mrs. Bell. They wanted a nice home and they have it now on a lake outside Kansas City.

Losing Money On Job

But in 1920 he felt sure enough of himself to look around and that landed him in the Kansas City council for four years. "That was a pleasure," he says, although he lost money in the job. Then he became a circuit court judge and then a congressman.

He really likes the job although he's losing money because he took it.

He's getting gray here in Washington but he's keeping his waistline down by horseback riding.

He has read Gibbon and he shivers over the degeneration of the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome. He'd like to prevent a repetition here.

High Interest Bill

By SANDOR S. KLEIN
United Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 24.—At least 14 cents out of every dollar paid by federal taxpayers in the current fiscal year is being spent for interest on the highest national debt in history, treasury statistics showed today.

This compares with 17 cents last year and only 9 cents just prior to the United States' entry into the World war.

The 14 cents figure is based on the President's budget estimate that his fiscal year's government income will aggregate $5,5[illegible]. However, there is a likelihood that this figure will be increased because of definite indications that revenue will not come up to expectations.

Budget statisticians estimated that $8[illegible],000,000 would be spent this year to meet interest obligations on the national debt, now at $34,7[illegible],000,000, but which is expected to reach $35,000,000,000 by June 30, end of the fiscal year.

Despite the increase in the national debt, a relatively smaller portion of the taxpayer's dollar is being used to pay interest on the government's indebtedness. This is due to greatly increased federal revenue and lower interest rates growing out of refunding operations.

The average interest rate on the public debt, latest treasury figures show, is 2.53 per cent. In the fall of 193[illegible] it was 3.[illegible]2.

If budget estimates for the 1938 fiscal year were fulfilled, only 11 cents of each revenue dollar would be used for meeting the public debt interest, which is expected to total about $8[illegible]0,000,000.

The interest alone on the national debt this year is approximately 119 times greater than was the national income in 1792 when the new born Republic found itself faced with the necessity of paying $3,201,5[illegible]8 interest out of $4,415,913 revenue, or 72 cents out of each dollar.

In the post Civil war period 29 cents out of each dollar went to pay interest charges.

Court Compromise Feeler

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The first infinitesimal feeler toward a move which might be called a compromise in the President's court packing case has been made very much off the record.

One of the opposition leaders on Capitol Hill sent word downtown to a presidential adviser suggesting that in view of the Wagner decision it seems rather unnecessary to add six more justices to an already favorable supreme court, so how about working out something to settle the argument.

The answer came back: "We wouldn't take less than four."

No Authority

The respondent did not assume to speak for the President and no one is now assuming he consulted the President. President Roosevelt in all conversations, private and public, has indicated he would not compromise to the extent of the sixth eyelash on the sixth new proposed justice. At any rate that ended that.

The only principle at issue, of course, still is whether the President shall get control of the court by adding to it. This issue cannot be halved by slicing the number of the new justices.

Either the President does get control or he does not.

Opposition

Opposition leaders have always wondered why the President did not claim his victory in the Wagner case and reform his program to attain his objectives in the way pointed out by the court. The various answers to this seem to be (1) The whole future NRA program, etc., was being worked out on the expectation of an adverse decision and adherence to the decision would require the scrapping of all the inside work that had been done. (2) the Cohen-Corcoran group of advisers were so utterly surprised by the decision that they doubted the genuineness of it, and still do.

Pals

Mr. Roosevelt is having difficult luck holding out who his real friends are these days.

Immediately after he submitted his appeal for a hold-down budget up jumped the independent liberal progressives who have generally sided with him but have never joined him and have always kept one foot in the door. They demanded a cool increase of a billion dollars in the President's relief allotment, an increase which would ruin all his carefully laid plans. And they set out to get it.

The groans of Mr. Roosevelt's treasury watchdogs could be heard all down the mile expanse of Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol. They know that many of the I. L. P. friends of the White House do not care what happens to the budget or the treasury, provided the [illegible] and Roosevelt friends afterward. He is their leader only when he is going in their direction.

The movement of course will not succeed. In one way it may serve the President's game indirectly by tending to counteract the really formidable movement by conservative Democrats for a curtailment in government expenses.

However, such personal occurrences sometimes have a profound effect at the White House and a reshuffle of friends is not impossible.

Cutting

The Republicans must have heard something before their congressman Taber proposed that flat 10 per cent cut in the agriculture and other departmental appropriations.

Those who were listening at the window heard the subject first mentioned at the White House conference of congressional leaders on the budget. It was not considered very seriously at that time, or at least was taken under advisement, but something may develop on it if the Republicans have not spoiled it.

A flat 10 per cent slash might work a hardship on some departments. Their work would be seriously impaired by an arbitrary cut. At the same time there are others which could be cut 15 per cent without material damage.

If something can be worked out which will give the President power to switch appropriations from department to department without nullifying the congressional right to make appropriations, it would solve the situation.

Run Around

Reader M. L. Ramsay in his new book, "Pyramids of Power" (analyzing the Insull set up and the President's power purposes) tells this one about a utility chieftain who somehow or other got into the White House during the old NRA days.

The power man had tried without success to get public power companies put under the same restrictions as proposed in the NRA code. All he was able to get from anyone was a polite run around. In exasperation he cried out to the President: "I represent a tremendous industry. What am I going to tell them?"

Mr. Roosevelt chuckled and replied: "Tell them you came down to Washington and met the big bad wolf."

Trapped at an Afternoon Tea

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 24.—They finally got me out to another afternoon tea and for a dandy takeoff I've just introduced a lady to the husband she divorced eight years ago. All I can do now is look around for some unoccupied corner in which to do a little serious brooding.

I'm something of a wall leaner and far away looker. Some miss they think I'm not of this world. The ascetic type. Introspective. If anyone tries to speak to me I'll put on my sad wisp of a smile. As though nothing mattered and I was sick of public admiration.

But from the way they glance at me and flounce on you'd think I had a touch of the bubonic plague or something. If I were a hand kisser and full of small talk I'd get somewhere. Maybe they think I'm part of the furnishings. A statue in chalk or the like.

A fellow ought to rate more than a cup of tea for founding in one of these affairs. Don't look now, but that girl slightly lit is weaving my way. Yes, she sees me. Coming on me on a race the partly drunk. She hiccups. Ah, my noble dream prince.

* * *

That makes a fellow feel like a dash of lavender right out. No use for this palooka. You could cut yourself on her breath. She wants to know if I'm lit. And she's beginning to pick things off my coat lapel and get confidential. The cozy sort. They cry easily too. It won't be long now until she's in tears over the passing of her granduncle in the war of the rebellion or that I've hurt her feelings. I can lean against a wall, keep my mouth absolutely shut and hurt more feelings than any professional insulter that ever lived. It's a gift. I never miss.

* * *

I knew it. She's tuning up. I hope her mascara doesn't run. She asks if I don't want to talk to her, why not go on about my business. What do I think she is—a pick up? And so that's the trouble with a girl coming to a party unescorted. Some fresh squirt is always trying to get new with her. All of a sudden she decides to become haughty. Why should she be annoyed by such an insignificant nobody? She suggests I'm probably one of the hired butler anyway. And with a headtoss make an Ethel Barrymore exit. All alone again.

* * *

I wish they'd just let me go on with my leaning until it is time to go. I take a lean guy for a long lean. Perhaps I'd have a better time if I went giddy and took up a [illegible]. At my age I was one [illegible] a feat in gallantry. The last time I tried it I smiled at a [illegible] Myrna Loy looking number in the foyer of Music Hall and I heard the object of my coyness inquire of her girl friend "What's that fool grinning about?" When I grow coquettish I'm comedy. One of these days I'm going to get all charmed up at one of these Charm Schools. Then I'll show 'em.

* * *

I think I'll [illegible] a little coquetting on [illegible] Boone Girls [illegible] alone on a divan, dandling her tea cup. I'll ask her if I didn't meet her at Palm Beach [illegible] might have known [illegible] Italian. And [illegible] English. So all I can do is [illegible] and smile. I out I've been simpering so long now it will take a dollar's worth of massage to get the corners of my mouth down again.

* * *

Here comes that old pelican with a lorgnette [illegible] has been avoiding. She will now try to annex America's Wall Flower No. 1 of [illegible]. But I've had enough even though I have to sneak out of here and leave my new $10 hat. And I hope I don't come across that [illegible] hand-shaking hostess either. I'm in no mood to run up a step ladder and tell her good-bye. I buried my suspenders where they cross reaching when I came in.

Electric Sign Is Rebuilt By Cheney & Son Shop Here

Just because an electric sign is no longer applicable to the type of business for which it is intended to be used is no reason why it should be discarded. This has been demonstrated here this week with the rebuilding of the electric sign used for several years by the Kleinmaier Bros Co on South Main street.

With the Kleinmaier company going out of business next week after more than 50 years in Marion the old sign is being rebuilt by the Cheney & Son Signs shop on North Main street to suit the needs of Jess Kleinmaier who soon is to open a new men's wear store under his own name.

In the same manner the old bulb type sign can be converted into the new neon type sign and continue to give service for many years.

The Cheney shop maintains sales and service on neon signs for a large territory around Marion. The firm not only builds the signs it sells in its own shop but maintains a prompt service department for any type of neon or mercury sign.

The advent of the neon sign has made possible the use of this type of equipment for interior display for departments of stores and to call attention of customers to special articles. The Cheney shop now is turning out a number of such signs for a Marion concern.

Also in process of construction at the Cheney shop is a sign for a Galion concern. It soon will take its place with others which the Cheney firm has erected in a number of cities in counties adjacent to Marion.

FOREST GLEN DRAWS THRONG OF VISITORS

With the arrival of spring weather the weekly list of visitors at Forest Glen memorial park on the Upper Sandusky road north of Marion is increasing rapidly. Especially on Sunday more people are visiting the park to see the thousands of flowers and shrubs soon to come into bloom.

Another attraction that is again taking many to the park is the weekly Sunday afternoon organ concert played from the cathedral home and amplified through the chime tower. The program is presented from 3 until 4 o'clock.

Proper First Aid Methods Urged in Auto Mishaps

Many persons injured in automobile accidents might be saved from death if proper first-aid methods are used at the scene of the injury.

It is just as important to know what not to do as what to do in cases of emergency.

Never give an unconscious person water or other liquid as the person is not capable of swallowing. However water can be given in slow sips to a conscious person.

Keep any crowd that may gather back and attempt to cheer the injured person. Try to make the injured person as comfortable as possible.

Keep the person lying down. Do not walk around or make him sit up.

Most important in all cases of serious injury is to call a doctor. Anyone rendering first aid always should keep in mind to stay cool and not be in a hurry to move the injured. A good many people have died because they have been hastily moved before the extent of their injury has been determined.

Only when there is serious bleeding, stoppage of breathing or poisoning (such as from carbon monoxide) is there need for haste.

Financial advertising showed the biggest percentage gain 17 4 per cent followed by General 15 9 per cent, classified 15 9 per cent, retail 8 3 per cent and department stores 8 per cent.

The full year's report indicates that department stores are the most consistent believers in newspaper advertising. For the month of December department-store lineage was 99 2 per cent of the peak year of 1929, and for the full 12 months the stores used 93 per cent as much space as in 1929.

Industries related to home building found their business increased. Advertising in this field showed increased activity.

PRESS WITH BUILT-IN EQUIPMENT HANDY

Houses built for a family of four or five persons should have a storage closet containing built in drawers, hat racks, hat compartments, hangers for coats and containers for rubbers, galoshes etc. Attics if not too low may be used for storage space also. Waterproofed cellars if they are ventilated by one or two windows will serve for storage space for trunks, suit cases, etc.

MOSER RETREADING ADDS LIFE TO TIRE

Automobile and truck tires that have stood the strain of winter driving even with the tread gone or badly worn will need some attention if they are to deliver satisfactory service during the hot months of the summer.

Even though the tread is worn they need not be discarded. A new tread vulcanized over the old casing will add many miles. In fact in most cases will about double the life of the tire.

This work is being done for many motorists every day by John Moser manager of the Moser tire service at the rear of 255 North State street. The Moser shop uses the Kelly-Mold system of tire retreading by which a new tread is vulcanized over the old casing. With a fraction of the cost of a new tire its life is practically doubled.

PAINT INDUSTRY REPORTS GAINS

WASHINGTON D C Sales reported to the United States bureau of the census by 170 establishments show a total of $30 03111 in paint, varnish and lacquer sales for January 1937 representing a gain of 28 9 per cent over the same month a year ago. This figure is only 7 4 per cent under 1929 the peak year in the industry.

PORCH OR TERRACE

A porch or terrace is a valuable adjunct to the new or modernized house. The opportunity of spending time in the open air or serving meals out of doors is too pleasant and healthful to be neglected. This is a consideration when a new home is planned.

Plays in 'Seventh Heaven" With James Stewart Here for Week

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell made screen history with Seventh Heaven about 10 years ago and now another version with Simone Simon and James Stewart co-starred has been released The picture opened at the Ohio today and will remain through Friday

Simone is Diane the little street waif and Stewart is Chico the laughing young man with the valiant spirit and the shy yearning love

Montmartre most colorful and exciting of all sections of Paris is the background rich in picturesque settings and characters

The story opens in 1914 with Chico spending his days working in the huge subterranean Paris sewer Unfortunately for his belief in God neither of his requests to heaven has been granted He has not been made a street washer so that he could breathe the clear air of the streets above and he has not been sent an intelligent fine wife

He saves Diane from being beaten to death by the owner of a notorious cafe who has reared her from childhood When gendarmes start to arrest Diane for throwing wine in the face of a customer who annoyed her Chico saves her by posing as her husband The gendarmes take his name and address and promise to check up on their life from time to time

Chico finds himself stuck with his story and is forced to live it out taking Diane with him to the little garret from which he watches the beauties of the heavens at night to forget the dank sewer in which he toils all day When the war comes and Chico is called to the army he realizes that he is in love with Diane and pledges to return to her in spirit at 11 o'clock every day Diane keeps the tryst even after the government publishes the news that Chico has been killed

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Men and Women Join In Deadly Battle Aboard Ship

I DO not think that as long as life is left to me I ever can forget the nightmare which followed my scream as the man whom I had been watching sprang with arms extended toward the hidden switch pinning me to the wall as his fingers clawed desperately along the rough surface.

I am a strong woman yet my strength was as nothing when pitted against the furious determination of the man striving to reach the switch which the frantic voice below decks had warned me would send us all to the bottom of the sea But somehow from somewhere I found endurance to cling to him to suffer the blows rained upon my head and shoulders and to keep his fingers from touching the switch until Dicky made a flying tackle of the kind his teammates at Yale still remember and brought the man and me down in an ignominious heap.

Get clear Madge! Dicky commanded crisply I've got him and Harry's coming"

But, as I obeyed his command and scrambled bruised and nearly blinded to my feet I yet had vision enough to see that neither Harry Underwood nor my father nor yet any one else was for the minute coming to my husband's aid.

Chief in Danger

For even as the man sprang toward the wall, he had raised his voice in a shout, whose meaning though couched in an alien tongue, was instantly apparent.

Even those of the men, who, like their leader, had plotted to betray their comrades and seize for themselves the money dedicated to their revolutionary cause, heeded that call which gave them a chance—however far-fetched—of victory Each man, as if by pre-arrangement, sprang ferociously at the man guarding him. One of them seized the opportunity to dash straight at my father, and if it had not been for Harry Underwood's timely aid, the life of the beloved "chief" would not have been worth the traditional farthing.

I had tried to aid Dicky by [illegible] ing of the arms of [illegible] was locked in a rough and tumble scrimmage with my husband But Dicky had barked a savage command to stand back and I was afraid of hampering him by disobedience I flattened myself against the corner of the cabin and watched the melee with terror filled eyes

In a minute the place was a shambles The government men I knew were trying to disable rather than kill but so ferocious was the attack upon them so grave the danger of losing the battle that they could not always direct their shots as they wished Soon I saw stretched out more than one man who never would move again

Dicky Saves Madge

Lillian had reached Queen Olga's side just as the inferno broke loose I saw her aiding Noel and his father in guiding the queen and her daughter Olina to a comparatively sheltered corner of the deck I tried to shriek a warning to them as I saw that it was near the spot where Jack Leslie lay

My voice went unheeded indeed almost all sounds were mingled in distinguishably in that bedlam But the shrill animal like cries of the woman who had been brought on deck floated over everything else as she dashed across the deck, twisting wriggling slithering despite all attempts to hold her, until a fury incarnate she was within striking distance of me.

The daughter first, Carl!" she shrieked to the man battling with Dicky, as she snatched a dagger from some hiding place in her dress and struck at me with it. But the blow did not reach me, for with almost miraculous quickness and adroitness, Dicky loosened one of his hands holding the struggling man and, grasping an ankle of the woman, tripped her to a fall.

It was just the delay needed to enable Harry Underwood and my father, just then freed from the men attacking them, to rush toward us, and seize her before she could rise. But [illegible] aged to free the [illegible] dagger [illegible] "Adieu, Carl [illegible] her own [illegible]

Les[lie] wrestling [illegible] apparently [illegible] near him and getting [illegible] Noel and Mary even [illegible] Mary evidently had been [illegible] I had [illegible] I saw her [illegible] Olina's arm [illegible] and [illegible] past Noel Les[lie] [illegible] wrenched from his grasp and now back [illegible] hand

She had kept her head Mary [illegible] she had depended upon her own strength to defend her husband But in her dash had grasped the arm of a government man and [illegible] thing in his [illegible] between [illegible] savage [illegible] Noel and his sinking [illegible] the deck with a [illegible] knife [illegible] that for the [illegible] I could [illegible] unharmed and Leslie either dead or wounded [illegible]

Fight to Finish

But I had no time for [illegible] over Noel's rescue The moment [illegible] slackening of Dicky's hand when he tripped the woman [illegible] me had given the man he was fighting a chance to get to his feet But the struggle had brought them too far from the switch for him to reach it With a sudden change of tactics he made a furious [illegible] the rail with Dicky still [illegible] to him and before [illegible] eyes my husband and the [illegible] held plunged over the railing to the waves below

I think I went a little mad then although I was sane enough to strip off my outer [illegible] mechanically and rush to the rail attired only in the woolen bathing suit and woolen stockings which my father had stipulated I must wear on this expedition

I heard but did not heed my father's anguished cry Margaret! Stop and sense that Harry Underwood's rush toward me I was so afraid that he would stop me that my plunge into the sea below was not clean cut and I must have grazed my head as I went over not seriously but enough to make me lose consciousness

When I next opened my eyes I believed that I must be dead or dreaming Vanished as if it had never been was the deck of the alien boat with its dead woman and dead and wounded men making it a shambles I was lying upon a comfortable bed in a luxurious cabin with Lillian ministering to me Gathered in the room with white anxious faces were the members of our farmhouse family together with Philip Veritzen Princess Olina and Queen Olga

The sight of them brought realization I was not dead nor was I dreaming The nightmare was over We were on the Veritzen yacht My father—I could see his dear face—had succeeded in his plan and Dicky was safe

A Happy Reunion

Dicky was speaking also—he evidently had not seen me open my eyes and his voice was raucous with fear

Are you sure she's all right Lil? I—I can't stand much more of this

Lillian had seen my opened eyes Her own smiled reassuringly down at me

See for yourself she said and the next instant my husband had his arms around me But after that first flash of tenderness his face darkened with almost hysterical anger

Why in the devil did you pull a fool stunt like that? he demanded You know I can do anything I like in the water And then you nearly get us both drowned by tumbling off there just when I'd succeeded in breaking the hold of that devil You ought to have a good thrashing

Well you can't give it to her now Dicky bird Lillian drawled The rest of us won't let you If you aren't just like a woman who goes nearly out of her mind because her child is lost, and then whales the tar out of the kid as soon as he's found! Get away from here and let her father have a chance to speak to her

But, even as I returned my father's tender kiss, my hand clung to my husband and refused to let him go For with the clarity of years of experience, I knew that everything was again all right between us, that the shadow of Allen Drake was exorcised and that the comradeship and the beauty of our marriage had been saved

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

BY [illegible]

[illegible]

SYNOPSIS A raging February storm breaks on Farrington Bluff as Michael his sweetheart Gay Palmer and I arrive for a week end with his aunts That night Jude Blinsk [illegible] the fourth guest and the Skipper Mike's tall and tweed younger aunt disappears Michael is hurt in a fall while we search the island But William the chauffeur and I continue the search finding Jude's bullet riddled body on the bluff I carry it to the kitchen and the Skipper [illegible] in saying she's been in the stable attending her sick collie Mike Gay and Aunt Martha take the news about Jude rather hard

CHAPTER [illegible]

Never Repeat This—

M. FARRINGTON'S room was [illegible] Sèvres [illegible] k[illegible] glass [illegible] jutted out all over the tables and [illegible] [illegible] the walls [illegible] [illegible] in [illegible] composure [illegible] in [illegible] an [illegible] bassinet bed [illegible] the bed reposed Christopher look[ing] fat and disagreeable and in the bed [illegible] fully white and [illegible] [illegible] Martha Farrington

[illegible] her face got me [illegible] all her [illegible] and fussiness I was fond of the old lady I was suddenly keenly aware of all the [illegible] [illegible] me [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] of that [illegible] seemed [illegible] up [illegible] M Farrington lying there helpless I sat down beside her and took her hand

Aunt Barbara has just gone to say good night to Michael I [illegible] You mustn't worry Aunt Martha It will all work out somehow I realized how inadequate those words were but couldn't think of anything more impressive to add to them

Her head moved fretfully from side to side She scarcely seemed aware of my presence I thought it would all finish when you and Michael came she said faintly

My breath came in so hard that it seemed to crack my ribs With all my might I was fighting back the horrible suspicion that was closing in on me like a monstrous octopus

You thought what would finish?" I prompted loyalty to the Skipper lying like a ton of lead in my heart There was no answer M Farrington was crying not in the loud ear piercing hysteria that had greeted us earlier in the night but weakly pitifully as if too worn out to do anything else

Don't cry Aunt Martha I said Try to rest I'll take care of everything Will promise

The hideous clock on the mantel ticked persistently over the sound of her weary sobbing I strained to make my mind a blank—to forget the Skipper's stricken face to forget Michael's words above all to forget that picture of Judith lying in the light of William's torch Every nerve in my body jangled to the sound of that clock and of that crying And then slowly the sobbing diminished paused for an instant started again and stopped altogether The clock and I were alone in a nightmare world M Farrington's voice recalled me to my senses

James promise me something

I rubbed my eyes dazedly Anything Aunt Martha

Never repeat what I am going to tell you to anyone

You can trust me

I know I can She hesitated When she spoke again her voice was stronger nearly normal Something has been troubling Barbara for months She refuses to see a doctor She can't seem to bring herself to confide in me I sent for you and Michael because I was frightened

I felt cold and clammy I know I said

When I told her that I had invited Judith she seemed terribly upset I would have undone it if I could but Judith had already accepted And now— Her grip on my hand tightened James I left the bathroom door open when I went to bed About half past nine I heard Barbara come up She didn't go to bed apparently for she didn't come in to say good night I fell asleep and after a while I woke up to hear her talking with—with Judith. After a few moments I heard them go downstairs together James I—'

Her voice cracked and there was silence We sat staring at each other, and the horror in her eyes was caused by the same thing that was creeping up and down my spine I found my voice finally

"But—what were they talking about?"

"I couldn't hear I couldn't hear anything"

Again the clock obtruded itself upon my consciousness I counted its ticks—one—two—three—four— And the Skipper came quietly in.

I meant to figure some things out before I joined her. I meant personally to inspect the locks on every door and window in the house. I meant to do a lot of things. And five minutes later I was stretched out "sawing wood" for all I was worth

Bad Temper Prevails

"I have seen many a morning after, but never one like that. I woke with a pounding head and

And So to Bed

[illegible] my feet [illegible]

[illegible] I think I [illegible] said

[illegible]

The Skipper [illegible] at me for a [illegible] leave the bathroom door open and keep an eye on Mike We [illegible]

[illegible] was risky to leave them alone [illegible] And [illegible] the Skipper square in the eye it was impossible [illegible] I murmured a jumbled good night to M Farrington as I got to the door There [illegible] the Skipper I kissed her and ran out of that room as fast as I could

For one instant after I had [illegible] Michael [illegible] king of that [illegible] seemed to have [illegible] me There was Michael and there was Gay both [illegible] ette and both looking a bit surprised

Where's the fire" demanded the former with a faint smile I haven't seen one in many hours I won't run away until after the manhandling I've just had How's the Aunt"

Weeping [illegible] Beat it Gay and [illegible] take [illegible] aspirin This guy's going to sleep If [illegible] anything [illegible] on the wall and [illegible] me [illegible] armed to the teeth Scram

Gay laughed Whatever I had been going through in that last half hour it was evident that the Skipper had bolstered up those two very effectively

In that case I won't bang" She kissed Michael threw me a [illegible] [illegible] look and took herself off

Over the weird arrangement of bandages blankets and pillows that surrounded him Michael contemplated me

So once he observed with a chuckle you'll admit that it would have been a good idea to have stayed in New York

His chuckle reminded me of the Skipper

I gave him what I considered enough aspirin to numb an elephant My watch said 0 15 as I put out his light The last thing in the world I had any intention of doing was sleeping My program was all to action I would merely wait until I was sure he had dozed off

As I flopped down on my bed head in hands I could hear Gay's restless footsteps in the next room

an unshaken conviction that if the powers that be were attending to their jobs they would dispense with creation in general speedily But the powers must have been otherwise engaged

I was sitting on the edge of my bed holding my head on with both hands and experimenting stretching one stiff leg after another when Michael appeared in the bathroom door As I considered his [illegible] and the bandages on his head tiredly wondering where he got them, he burst into vehement speech

Perhaps you'll be through admiring my physique by lunch time and help me get on a shirt"

Mensley [illegible] some effective [illegible] work that left me feeling like a [illegible] [illegible] and Jackass

How do you feel" I hazarded

If I felt queer they'd fumigate me

All in all I felt more like the jackass I had slept—slept while an unknown killer My thoughts weren't very pleasant I cut myself shaving burned myself in a scalding shower and broke two shoe laces By the time we were both dressed it was 9 30 and I had exhausted an extensive vocabulary

Michael disdaining my suggestion that he might stay upstairs for a little while marched down ahead of me a bad case of grouch written in the set of his chin and the way his one good hand slapped the banister Tragedy seemed to have taken a fling out the window that morning in favor of common ordinary bad temper We found the dining room enveloped in forbidding silence

The Skipper was at the table absentmindedly fiddling with some bacon while Gay banged angrily among the coffee cups on the sideboard The idea of the women being up and about while we calmly slept—well anyway slept—annoyed me into speech

It is I announced with finality a rotten morning

"Think of your discovering that all by yourself said Gay and spilt her coffee to my infinite satisfaction

The Skipper laughed How's your arm Mike? Get any sleep?"

Michael's arm as he had already explained to me with some violence felt better and he had had more sleep than any of us But he slumped into a chair took the coffee Gay handed him and growled O K in a tone that made it quite clear that anyone who wanted to argue about anything would be accommodated immediately

"With Christ"

A SERMONETTE

BY REV D C SHEARER

Pastor the First Pilgrim Holiness Church

If we really believe Christ is that which the Holy Scripture portrays Him to be we will consider it a privilege to be identified with Him

Many desire to be associated with Him hereafter—in His heaven—but are hardly willing to stand with and for Him now

It is our blessed privilege to be Dead with Him Col 2 20—Peace Risen with Him Col 2 12— Power Hid with Him Col 3 3— Preservation Hereafter seated with Him Phil 1 23— Reward

Before the saving grace of Christ comes to our heart we live in death And what a death Dead in trespasses and sins Dead toward Christ Dead toward eternal verities The heart is not open to this love The mind is closed toward His requirements Alive to this world alive to pleasure to prosperity alive to selfish interests but alas—dead toward Christ and eternal things which concern us the longest Prayer is only a resort in time of calamity

But read the heart experience of a man who had been brought out of this death I am crucified with Christ nevertheless I live yet not I but Christ liveth in me Out of death in sin to death to sin Gal 2 20 No longer the self willed Saul of Tarsus life the blasphemer is dead the mad persecutor is crucified I found mercy grace to [illegible] faith he says What a find So the chief of the sinners has become the chief apostle Christ liveth in me hence the life which I now live is different

If Christ lives in me—my heart will be clean If Christ lives in me—my life will be pure My motives will be akin to His Reader what known sin can be practiced what dishonest gain can be indulged if Christ lives in me?

But some one says—Oh my temper my weakness my weakness Friend there is power in this gospel How much? All you need None to waste but sufficient for daily use and emergency

Ponder carefully Eph 1 19-20 And what is the exceeding greatness of His power to us ward who believe according to the working of His mighty power which He wrought in Christ when He raised Him from the dead

The power of God brought life to Christ's dead body The power of God can bring resurrection life to a dead soul and cause the one to walk in newness of life

How is this brought about? By the mediation of Christ in heaven By the work of the Holy Spirit in the heart Repentance and faith precede the new birth Consecration and faith precede sanctification

Since the resurrection of Christ is the standard and measure of the power that is to work in us mightily why should we longer grieve or quench the Holy Spirit? The third Sunday of May is Pentecost Sunday But one need wait until then to receive the Holy Spirit He is ready now to enter the obedient heart Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed?

Ah leave us not to mourn below

Or long for Thy return to pine

Now Lord the Comforter bestow

And fix in us the Guest divine

Hubbell Hurls Three-Hit Shutout Against Boston

Cleveland Wallops Browns, 9-2; Reds Nosed Out, 4-3, by Pirates in Fight-Marked Game.

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Writer

Squarepants is back with all his stuff so all's right with the Bronx the Polo Grounds and the New York Giants But it's not so hot for the rest of the National League

Squarepants for the benefit of those who've missed the treat is the National League's leading pitcher King Carl Hubbell He got the nickname from his extra-leg length baseball jeans which stretch three-quarters of the way down to his ankles and look for all the world like two stovepipes painted white, when he's out there on the mound

He is also noted for his portside pitching, his screwball specialty, and his 16 game unfinished winning streak last season

Bill Terry threw King Carl at the usually troublesome Boston Bees yesterday as the league champions made their debut at their own Polo Grounds

Hubbell's screwball did everything but sit up and laugh The rest of his stuff followed suit and Carl pitched himself a three-hit 3-0 shutout for the Giants second straight win of the season and his own 17th straight in league competition He fanned five walked three and the only time he was threatened he struck out two men in a row with the bases loaded

Hubbell's top flight flinging topped a day of generally fine pitching all along the big league front Right behind him were young George Caster of Connie Mack's Athletics and old Waite Hoyt opening his 20th year in the majors as relief pitcher extraordinary for the Pittsburgh Pirates

Hoyt picking up in the second inning when Big Jim Weaver weakened allowed three hits the rest of the way as the Bucs won their third straight nosing out the roughhouse Reds from Cincinnati 4-3 in a game marked by the season's first fist fight Rookie Lee Grissom of the Reds and Catcher Al Todd started it and several others joined in before it was over

Caster limited the Senators to four hits in hurling a 7-1 victory with the help of Bob Johnson's third homer in as many games

Roy Henshaw fanned nine in close to eight innings as the Dodgers topped the Phillies 4-3 in the Philadelphia National League opener Roxie Lawson muffled the Chicago White Sox with half a dozen hits as the Detroit Tigers headed by Hank Greenberg and his first homer clubbed out a 10-2 conquest to remain undefeated

Although touched for eight and ten hits respectively the Cardinals Lon Warneke and the Cleveland Indians Johnny Allen showed lots of stuff in the pinches Warneke kept the Cards in the unbeaten column with a 5-1 victory St Louis third Allen's Indian mates did most of the work in the Cleveland home opener banging five pitchers to wallop the already slipping St Louis Browns 9-2 The Yankees and Boston Red Sox were rained out

The Indians tangling with the Browns again are slated to present their week end rookie sensation young Bob Feller to the home folks in today's tilt

URBAN AND RURAL ATHLETES IN MIDST OF SPRING CONTESTS

Marion Nine at Mt Gilead Track and Field Events Staged at Prospect.

Today's county relay program at Prospect and the opening of the Marion high school baseball season at Mt Gilead are the high spots of this week's athletic calendar for scholastic sports in young city and county school teams

Both events are expected to draw heavy attendance from among the followers of school sports and their success depends almost entirely upon weather conditions The forecast yesterday which called for rain and warm weather had officials in charge of the programs hoping that the weatherman would find himself only half correct

Coach Paul Keller of Prospect reported early today that barring unforeseen difficulties the relays program would be held as scheduled starting at 10 o'clock this morning and continuing until late afternoon Nearly 150 county high school athletes were named in the eligibility lists submitted by seven schools which yesterday had filed entrance papers for participation in the relays program

Agosta Caledonia Green Camp Morral Pleasant Prospect and Waldo had entered the event early this week and at least one other school was expected to take part The program being held for the purpose of conditioning athletes for the county track meet in May includes both high school and grade events Trophies will be awarded for first and second place in the high school division and to first place only in the grade competition

Coach C H Hannahs this morning planned to take a squad of 18 athletes to Mt Gilead for the opening of Marion's scholastic baseball season Members of the team represent both the student body at Thomas A Edison Junior high school and Harding high school The diamond artists have been working out on the Uncapher diamond for the past two weeks and at present have a four game spring schedule arranged

The Marion team will be seen in action for the first time on the home lot when Edison high's club comes here May 3 The only other games booked at present are return games with the same schools one to be played at Edison on May 10 and the other set for the home diamond May 15 with Mt Gilead The home games will probably be played on the Marion Steam Shovel Athletic association's field on Uncapher avenue

FISTS FLY IN TILT OF REDS, PIRATES

Players Roll on Ground Until Scrap Is Halted, Two Banished

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH April 24 — A fight resembling a catch as catch can contest between Al Todd Pirates husky catcher and Lee Grissom lanky Cincinnati pitcher enlivened the opening baseball game of the season for some 22 000 Pittsburgh fans

The hustling Reds rankling at two straight defeats administered by St Louis Cardinals were driving hard to overcome a 1-2 advantage held by the Pirates

Grissom was pitching his curves mostly on the inside corner of the plate In the sixth one ball grazed Gus Suhr and another planked Bill Brubaker

Todd came to bat and exchanged some words with the young pitcher then singled and went to second as a play was made for Brubaker at third

The word battle kept up until the third out The 195 pound six foot two inch catcher walked up to the 200 pound six foot hurler

Both threw their fists then clinched and tumbled to the ground rolling over each other Players from each side rushed out and for a time it appeared Arky Vaughan Pirate shortstop and Kampouris Reds utility infielder would start a second fight.

Todd and Grissom were banished

RED BIRDS OPEN ON HOME LOT WITH WIN OVER LOUISVILLE, 5-3

Minneapolis Wins Second Straight Game from Kansas City Blues, 14-7.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO April 24—The Minneapolis siege guns are booming in another American Association pennant chase

The Kels always seem to come up with a powerful aggregation and this season apparently isn't any exception even though the Millers lost such hard hitting stars as Fabian Gaffke and Earl Browne during the winter Yesterday Minneapolis made it two straight over the Kansas City Blues winning 14 to 7 on a 17 hit attack which included a pair of homers by Red Kress who leads the circuit in homers with five to his credit.

Milwaukee won a hard fought battle from St Paul 5 to 2 Ralph Winegarner's homer with a mate on base in the fifth decided a pitching duel in favor of George Blaeholder over little Art Herring

The Toledo Mud Hens scored all their runs in a big seventh inning drive to whip Indianapolis 10 to 5 and even their series Ed Coleman hit two doubles

Columbus had a successful opener on its home lot by defeating Louisville 5 to 3 before 4 424 fans Ed Heusser pitched effectively while timely hitting by Bill Prout and Jimmy Webb featured the contest Heusser allowed the Colonels only five hits as the victors were nicking three Brood hurlers for 11 Prout Red Birds first sacker had three for three while Webb had two hits out of four trips

SALE
WEDNESDAY APRIL 28

Bucyrus Livestock
Commission Co
On Plymouth Road State Route 98
BUCYRUS, OHIO

We had a few more horses this week than last The prices were about the same as they have been the last two or three weeks and everything sold The quality was very good—don't think you could find as many good horses in the same number as we had here Wednesday

The majority of our horses are trucked in the morning of the sale fresh off the farms and assembled in the most sanitary barns in the country and if you are in the market for any kind of a horse if it is one or a car load we can convince you this is a good place to buy if you will attend our sale

From the number of horses reported we look for a very good run for next Wednesday and expect a good selection of the different grade

If you plan on being here next week would appreciate a wire at our expense Will also expect a good run of dairy cows again for this sale Have been getting some very good cows and don't think you will make a mistake in attending our sales if you are in need of any cows

You can buy or sell here Horse and Cow Sale each Wednesday Cattle Sheep and Hog Sale each Saturday

Your presence will be appreciated

Sinusitis

NASAL SINUSITIS [illegible] of the most common diseases of modern times. Many diseases have been known for centuries but few references to sinusitis may have been [illegible] made in old textbooks. It may well be that changes in our habits and mode of living are responsible for many of the present-day diseases including this.

The sinuses are hollow spaces or cavities found in the bony structure of the head and face. These spaces are lined with mucous membrane and communicate with the interior of the nose into which they drain. If this lining membrane becomes inflamed or infected congestion and obstruction follow with the familiar symptoms of sinusitis.

As a rule, this disturbance can be traced to a head cold, coryza, inflammation of the upper air passages or some constitutional disease. The germs reach the sinuses where they rapidly multiply setting up an acute irritation and infection.

Unfortunately not every case of sinusitis is a mild one. In many instances there is pus formation, and then the infection persists for months and even years. When this occurs, the condition is known as "chronic sinusitis."

The victim of sinusitis is sensitive to changes of temperature and weather. He is extremely susceptible to colds and infections of the upper air passages. Persistent attacks of headache facial neuralgia nasal catarrh and difficulty in breathing are other symptoms of this disorder. Due to the absorption of toxins or pus from the infected sinus the victim may suffer from arthritis backache, indigestion constipation and other disorders.

The pus forming in a sinus may rupture through the thin wall that separates it from the brain, the eye socket or a large blood vessel. Severe blood poisoning or dangerous infection of the eye, brain or other organs may follow this accident.

I am often asked if sinusitis is curable. If medical attention is given during the acute onset of the infection the chances of cure are favorable.

Medical advice and treatment should always be sought. By means of the X-ray it is possible to visualize the sinuses and determine the exact location of the infection.

Never neglect a head cold. If you suffer from nasal catarrh, persistent discharge into the nose and throat, headache and facial [illegible] it may be you have [illegible] of the sinuses [illegible]
